

Cheshire Constabulary's approach to efficiency judged to be 'good' by HMIC

In the second year of assessing police against the annual PEEL Efficiency inspection, Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Constabulary examined how police forces use their resources now and how they plan to do so in the future in order to keep people safe and reduce crime.

Forces were inspected on how well they are able to forecast demand for their services now and in the longer term, and how they manage their resources, especially their officers and staff.

HMIC inspects all police forces in England and Wales on an annual basis against the themes of effectiveness, efficiency and legitimacy.

This year, Cheshire Constabulary was assessed to be:

- good at understanding current demand;
- have a good knowledge of officer and staff skills to meet the needs of the public; and
- be developing plans to make best use of technology.

HM Inspector of Constabulary Mike Cunningham said:

"I am pleased that Cheshire Constabulary continues to be good, with elements of outstanding, in terms of the way it efficiently keeps people safe and reduces crime.

"During our inspection, we found that the force has an excellent understanding of the demand it faces when preventing and fighting crime and protecting communities in Cheshire. It is also clear that the force has a good understanding of future demand based on careful planning.

"Alongside this sound financial and long-term planning, HMIC was pleased to see that Cheshire Constabulary has a good understanding of the skills and capabilities of its staff and officers. Its new information technology strategy is impressive and there is an ambitious plan for making more use of digital technology in order to allow officers and staff to spend more time on frontline services and less time in the office.

"Therefore, I am very pleased to judge Cheshire Constabulary as 'good' overall at efficiently keeping the public safe and reducing crime."

HMIC will report on its findings of police forces' legitimacy, or the way that forces are fair and ethical, at the end of this year, and on the effectiveness of police forces in managing all aspects of crime in spring 2017.

Notes to editors

1. Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Constabulary (HMIC) is an independent inspectorate, inspecting policing in the public interest, and assesses and reports on the effectiveness, efficiency and legitimacy of police forces in tackling crime and terrorism, improve criminal justice and raise confidence. HMIC inspects all 43 police forces in England and Wales together with other major policing and law enforcement bodies.
2. As part of its annual inspections of police effectiveness, efficiency and legitimacy (PEEL), HMIC's Efficiency programme assessed and graded all 43 forces in England and Wales on how efficient they are at keeping people safe and reducing crime.
3. To answer this question we looked at three areas:
 1. How well does the force use its resources to meet demand?
 2. How sustainable and affordable is the workforce model?
 3. How sustainable is the force's financial position for the short and long term?
4. Two of the 43 forces in England and Wales received an 'outstanding' grade in HMIC's efficiency inspection (Durham and West Midlands).
5. Eight forces received a 'requires improvement' grade (Bedfordshire, Cambridgeshire, City of London, Devon and Cornwall, Dyfed Powys, Humberside, Nottinghamshire and South Yorkshire Police).
6. The remaining 33 forces were judged as 'good'.
7. No forces were judged to be 'inadequate'.
8. In addition to an inspection report for each force, a national report, PEEL: Police Efficiency 2016 gives an overview of findings across England and Wales.
9. Last year (2015), five forces were 'outstanding' (Cheshire; Durham; Lancashire; Norfolk; and West Midlands). Eight forces received a 'requires improvement' grade (Bedfordshire; Cleveland; Dorset; Dyfed Powys; Lincolnshire; Northamptonshire; South Yorkshire; and Surrey). One force received an 'inadequate' grade (Humberside) and the remaining 29 forces were judged as 'good'. These reports are available on our website.
